PROGRAM NOTE

Joseph John Richards was born in Cwmavon, Wales, in 1878; when he was four years old, his family moved to the United States and settled in Peterson, Kansas. "Johnny," as he was known to his family and friends, began playing alto horn and cornet around the age of ten and soon joined the town band. His progress was steady, and by the age of nineteen he was directing the Norton-Jones Circus Band. Five years later, in 1902, he joined the Josh Spruceby Circus Band which, according to Richards, was prosperous enough to have uniforms but had to depend on a hay rack (instead of a circus wagon) for transportation in the longer parades. In subsequent years he conducted or played cornet with the circus bands of Barnum and Bailey (1908-1909), Dickson Humpty Dumpty, Si Plunkard, and Forepaugh-Sells (1910). From 1912 to 1918 he led the Ringling Brothers Band but was not chosen to conduct the newly combined Ringling Brothers & Barnum and Bailey Circus Band in 1919, because (according to Merle Evans, who was selected for that position) Richards' previous circus band "sounded too much like a concert band." During the off seasons of his circus touring years Richards studied music at Kansas State Teachers College and the American Conservatory in Chicago. He taught music at the U.S. Army School in Camp Grant, Illinois, during World War I.

In 1920 Richards began teaching public school music and directing the local Shrine Band in Pittsburgh, Kansas. In 1927 to around 1933 he spent the winter seasons in Bradenton, Florida, to conduct the Florida Concert Band, and he returned to Kansas each summer to conduct the Pittsburg Municipal Band. In 1937 he moved to Sterling, Illinois, where he conducted the municipal band the first year, added the high school band the second year, and by 1945 was also conducting the St. Mary's, Rock Falls, and Kable Brothers Bands. When Herbert L. Clarke died in 1945, Richards was selected to succeed him as conductor of the famous Long Beach, California, Municipal Band. At that time the band was playing eleven concerts each week throughout the year with thirty-five professional players, a five-man staff, complete rehearsal and performing facilities, and an annual budget which exceeded $100,000. Herman Vincent, now a retired U.S. Air Force bandmaster, remembers that he was impressed with the group's sight-reading ability when, at the age of fifteen, "Richards let me play Clarke's Carnival of Venice on a band concert one Sunday afternoon in 1945." Information in the April, 1981, Circus Fanfare includes a note specifying April 6, 1947, as the date of the band's 18,733rd concert. Richards retired from the Long Beach position in 1950, because of civil service age regulations, but he was persuaded to return to Mount Morris, Illinois, to conduct the Kable Concert Band from March to September each year—he lived in Long Beach each fall and winter.

Richards was popular with band audiences and with other musicians. A member of the American Bandmasters Association since 1936, he was elected president of that group in 1949. In 1981 he was posthumously elected to the Windjammers' Hall of Fame. On the University of Kansas Band album of his works, conductor Robert Foster summarizes his life as follows: "J. J. Richards was a virtuoso solo cornetist, a respected musician, a noted conductor, an educator, and a prolific composer and arranger." At the time of his death in Long Beach in 1956, he was survived by his wife, Anna, two brothers, and one sister.

During his career J. J. Richards wrote over 300 compositions for school and circus bands, over fifty of which are still published. His most popular marches include: Crusade for Freedom; Emblem of Unity; Golden Bear; Hail Miami, Shield of Liberty; and The Westerner, all published by the C.L. Barnhouse Co.

J.J. RICHARDS (1878-1956)

This brilliant march, Richards' most popular, was written while he was living in Sterling, Illinois, conducting both the high school and the community bands. A classic and exciting composition, this work is played by hundreds of school and professional bands each year. In conducting an elite band composed of outstanding Dutch musicians in 1981, Colonel Arnold Gabriel, then conductor of the U.S. Air Force Band, selected "Emblem of Unity" as one of only six American works for a jubilee concert which was broadcast in Kerkrade, Holland. Some of the composition's unique features include: the chord changes which precede the snare drum forzando in the introduction, the short lower brass breaks, and the final strain which sounds correct at either a constant, slower, or accelerating tempo.
