ABOUT THE COMPOSER

Matt Conaway (b. 1979) is an Assistant Professor of Bands at Purdue University in West Lafayette, IN. He serves as Associate Director of the famed "All-American" Marching Band, directs the University Concert Band and Varsity Band, assists with the basketball pep bands as a director and staff arranger, and is the department's technical coordinator. Prior to this appointment, he served for ten years as the Director of Bands for the West Lafayette Community School Corporation, during which time the program received many state and national accolades for musical excellence.

His compositions for band range from very beginning through very advanced, based on his experience working with all levels of performers in grades 5-12. Matt is also an accomplished arranger, and has written for athletic bands at Indiana University, Purdue University, and many high schools throughout the Midwest. His arrangements have been heard on the national stage at multiple bowl games and college basketball tournaments since 1999.

After graduating from Woodhaven (MI) High School in 1997, he attended Indiana University – Bloomington, where he studied arranging with David Woodley. He received his Bachelor of Music Education with Distinction in 2001, and earned a Masters of Music degree from the American Band College of Sam Houston State University in 2010. Matt has been granted honorary membership in Tau Beta Sigma and Kappa Kappa Psi, and was recently inducted into the Gamma Chapter of Phi Beta Mu. He is also a member of NAfME, NBA, Indiana Music Educators Association, Indiana Bandmasters Association, and ASCAP. He is in demand as a clinician and adjudicator at concert band festivals and competitions throughout the Midwest.

PROGRAM NOTES

The Dark Waters revolves around the rivers of the underworld in Greek mythology, the rivers separating the land of the living from the afterlife. The most famous of these is the River Styx, typically represented alongside the ferryman Charon, who would accept payment in return for carrying the souls of the recently deceased across the dark waters.

The River Styx is seen through the eyes of a living outside observer, much like Dante in the Divine Comedy. The shock of the first vision of the underworld quickly transitions to dispassionate observation of the bleak surroundings (mm. 1-20). Eventually, the observer comes across the ferryman, who demands payment to go further. Upon paying this toll, the dark river cruise begins (mm. 21-46). The speed of the river is such that only fleeting glimpses of the afterlife can be seen, but those few are terrifying to the observer. Brief musical interjections of the Dies Irae (Day of Wrath) theme can be heard as the ferry continues its journey down the river (mm. 55-63). Upon reaching the far foggy banks, the observer comes across a small group of repentant souls who offer up a prayer of salvation (mm. 71-85), but it is too little, too late; the fog lifts, and the observer faces Hades in shocking clarity (mm. 87-102). The gates open, the souls enter their eternal rest, and the observer continues to witness the entire scene until the gates abruptly close (mm. 103-111).

REHEARSAL NOTES

A surdo is a bass drum often found in Brazilian music, and visually resembles a very large floor tom. It has an extremely deep and powerful sound. A floor tom is a good substitute, but the surdo sound is unique and provides a good tone color.

M. 20: This chord is quite dissonant by design. Allow the trombone B♭ to clash against all the A's elsewhere in this chord.

M. 31: Keep the staccato 8th notes driving through this section. Since the melody is long-tone based, there is a tendency to drag here.

M. 71: Keep the music as static as possible; very little phrase inflection except as marked. It should sound hopeless; almost a caricature of a hymn.

M. 87: This should be almost unnervingly powerful and stressful to the audience. Feel free to experiment with positioning some percussion instruments
